

DBT SKILLS TRAINING

Audience: Secondary counseling staff, health education faculty, nurses, and other middle and high school supportive personnel

Dialectical Behavior Therapy (DBT) has proven to be effective with people who are in persistent emotional distress, have chronically unstable relationships, and present with recurrent self-injury and/or suicidal behavior. Increasingly DBT is being integrated into school settings. Formal DBT skills groups are a particularly effective intervention for high needs students. Additionally, the skills have broad relevance to the general student population. Any student can encounter the emotional upheaval of anxiety, stress or loss. Schools are beginning to integrate DBT skills into general health curriculum to support all students' social and emotional learning. DBT emphasizes skill-building.

The DBT Skills are the heart of the DBT model. All aspects of DBT are based on assisting students to learn and use a set of skills that have been proven to enhance coping and reduce distress.

This 4-part series provides a thorough training in all aspects of the DBT skills including mastery of the skills, running skills groups and teaching the skills to a variety of student populations. The presentation will include lecture, extensive use of the video examples and in-vivo practice.
